Comparative Economic Systems

Synopsis

This text focuses on comparisons between the three major types of economic systems in the world today - capitalism, transition economies of the former Soviet Union, and the economies of the LDC's and developing countries. Several variants of capitalism as represented by the U.S., Germany, and Japan are explored. Also discussed are the problems involved in the transformation of the former communist countries of Russia and Eastern Europe into capitalist countries. Developing economy coverage includes comparisons between China and India, the two largest countries in the world, as well as comparisons between Nigeria and South Africa.

Good

Book arrived as scheduled and in proper condition. Would buy from this buyer again.

I am appalled at the author and the editorial board of the publisher. Look at tables 1-1 and 1-2 for example. According to the author, the population of the U.S.A. in 1990 was 76.391 billion (=76,391 billion!!!!). And the GDP was 312.8666 Trillion dollars (= $312,866 billion dollars!!!). Same blunders about other countries in the table 1-1. Table 1-2 has similar BLUNDERS!!!! I have not had the time to go beyond chapter 1. The author did the greatest disservice to students and other teachers by writing this book, because some teachers will "accidentally adopt it, before they and their students discover that this book is simply a piece of garbage!
