Two favorites from one of the world's best-loved creative teams--Margaret Wise Brown and Clement Hurd--are collected in a sweet little board-book gift box. The Runaway Bunny and Goodnight Moon are the quintessential children's bedtime books, adored for generations by sleepy tots and their parents. In this gift edition, the two volumes are tucked snugly into a sturdy cardboard sleeve, illustrated on each side with the familiar book covers. No nursery bookshelf--or bedside table--is complete without a copy of each of these all-time classics. (Baby to preschool) --Emilie Coulter

Goodnight Moon In a great green room, tucked away in bed, is a little bunny. "Goodnight room, goodnight moon." And to all the familiar things in the softly lit room -- to the picture of the three little bears sitting in chairs, to the clocks and his socks, to the mittens and the kittens, to everything one by one -- he says goodnight. In this classic of modern children's literature, beloved by generations of readers and listeners, the quiet poetry of the words and the gentle, lulling illustrations combine to make a perfect book for the end of the day. The Runaway Bunny Clement Hurd redrew some of his pictures for this new edition of the profoundly comforting story of a bunny's imaginary game of hide-and-seek and the lovingly steadfast mother who finds him every time.

I gave my grandson these two books a while ago. I believed he was around two years old. He loved "Good night moon". I used to read it to him before going to bed and I explained every detail in the pictures. After reading it he used to pass the pages back and forth and looked at the pictures. I explained to him about all the objects found in the bedroom and in that way he learnt new words. Sometimes he turned out the pages and he himself named almost all the objects. He loved round shapes and the first thing he recognized was the moon. Then we compared the differences between the two pictures of the bedroom. I have to confess that my first impression was that the book was very simple, but then I realized how much this book -text and pictures- attracted him. The. colours of the bedroom with deemed lights I believe entice to sleep. Nice book for children until two years old to be read before going to bed, simple, cozy and very good for observation,

My little granddaughter and I spent much time reading this story. It is a dear classic, and very interesting for a young beginning devotee of books. Now, that my granddaughter is in school, and so much more sophisticated, the age of 6, I remember this story with great fondness, and I've bought it recently for another tiny little one. I hope he loves it as much as we did. If you've not met the script--it goes over a litany of things to tell goodnight, including the moon. It is not based in reality, but flies off, to a lovely, soothing imaginative realm, where a room is filled with creative objects: In the great green roomThere was a telephoneAnd a red balloonAnd a picture of thecow jumping over the moon.....the rhyming litany goes on, to tell all the objects goodnight. The repetitiveness is appropriate as an earliest intro to bedtime stories.

One of the books was printed upside down, which is quite an annoyance. This results in us just reading one of the books so I wish we would have ordered one rather than the set and saved the money for another book.

Every child should have a library of books written by Margaret Wise Brown. "Goodnight Moon" is a classic bedtime story. "The Runaway Bunny" tells the story of a mother bunny and the lengthsshe goes to when she reassures her baby she will go after him wherever he goes. These are chunky books; just right for baby and toddler fingers. A great baby gift!

Was sent as a gift to my friend's granddaughter who is one year old. Granny is already getting sick of Goodnight Moon because she has had to read it so many times. A great book for bedtime reading! I am an elementary school reading specialist and I highly recommend this book for preschoolers and beginning readers.

I bought a ton of books for my 6 month old and these aren't his favorites yet. He really hasn't been drawn to these at all but loves Peek a Who and Chica chica boom boom. Those are his two favorites and we have a lot of books, he prefers those two over the flap books and the cloth books as he just chews on the cloth books. He used to be interested in flaps but moved on from them right now.. But in all honesty he isn't quite into books yet. He also kind of likes the Very Hungry Caterpillar. I hope these will grow on him. Very cute books and great for an Easter gift too. :)

Our 5m old son loves this as his bedtime story. The book also seems to appeal to him as an object to chew on. Strong enough to withstand being ripped and easy to wipe clean if needed. Combination of bright colored pages and black and white ones.

the only reason I had to buy this was that the copy of goodnight moon I have growing up is falling apart.. because my parents read it to me EVERY NIGHT for years. great for any kid
