Whatever you do when you travel, get off the interstate. Who needs more bland rest stops and fast food? Get into the heart of things with Globe Pequot's Off the Beaten Path series. Devoted to travelers with a taste for the unique, this easy-to-use guide helps you discover the hidden places in Kentucky that most tourists miss - unsung, unspoiled, and out-of-the-way finds that liven up a week's vacation, a day trip, or an afternoon. [BOX]"Burnside, just south of Somerset, is not the only town on Lake Cumberland--it is the only town under the lake. In the late 1940s the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers moved the entire town to higher ground because the lake area was being impounded. The durable remains of old Burnside become visible during the winter when the lake's level lowers. It's eerie seeing foundations, porch steps, and sidewalks emerge from the mud and debris." Author Zoë Ayn Strecker is a freelance writer and ceramic sculptor. She lives on a farm in Harrodsburg, Kentucky. Editor Teresa Day is an independent copywriter. She edited and updated the third, fifth and sixth editions of Kentucky Off the Beaten Path. She resides in Georgetown, Kentucky.

I found this very helpful in learning about what we would like to see on our low key trip to Kentucky. I wish some of the directions were a little better, but all in all, very enjoyable reading and good advice.

Terrific guide to interesting, unexpected places and events in Kentucky you wouldn't find by driving along the interstate. We used it on a 10 day trip and got our monies worth.
