Rifle Paper Co. is a boutique stationary brand and design studio. Their stationary and invitations have been featured in publications such as Martha Stewart Living, InStyle and numerous blogs such as Oh Joy! and Design*Sponge.

I'm a huge fan of Rifle Paper and Anna Bond's (head artist) designs. Plus I'm a total sticker/label nut. So...I was surprised that I wasn't 100% thrilled with this set. Don't get me wrong, this is a beautiful, high quality collection. But the color palette is a bit one-note and far more muted than most of my Rifle favorites. I have a stack of Rifle stationery and gift wrap that, while soft and feminine, still really pops...but this underwhelms me. The thick card stock cover is such a gorgeous robin egg's blue so I'm wondering if maybe my particular labels just had a bad day at the printers. My main let down: there are sooooo many book plates. I'm a snail mailer and was hoping for less recipe/kitchen labels and book plates (I'm stingy and rarely loan out my books) so for my purposes, a lot of these will go unused until I find a recipient who will appreciate them. This is a collection described as a "home and gift giving" set, yet I spied the adorable snail mail label in 's images and assumed the distribution of label types might be little more generous. That's on me. I should have paid more attention to the other reviewers who noted the lack of mailing use labels. The washi-like strips are fun, and there's some nice round multi purpose seals, but this set would best be appreciate by readers, chefs, and gifters in search for sophisticated "to/from" labels.

Like all Rifle Paper Co products, I love these stickers! They are super cute and the perfect touch to for wrapping presents and for mailing. I use them to mail special orders out for my small business and think they are cute and sophisticated adornments: just what I was looking for! It comes with multiple stickers of each design ranging from patterned banner shaped stickers, round floral, decorative rectangles, "snail mail", "special delivery", to + from, lined to "Ex Libris". I have been using Rifle Paper Co products for years and trust their designs and quality to make hand written notes extra special.-----I purchased my first set of stickers in person at Anthropologie. When I was running low, I naturally went to for replacements. (For some reason Rifle Paper Co does not sell these products directly, as I prefer to support small businesses when possible). Overall, I have purchased 5+ of these sticker books. (I mail packages for my job, and love to add these stickers for special occasions). I purchased two from on Nov 1st with my free prime 2-day shipping and was told it could take over 2 months to stock and mail. I was hoping to get lucky and receive it sooner than later. I should have guessed: these stickers arrived the few days I was visiting family for Thanksgiving. Unlike other products I have purchased on they were mailed separately in two different mailers - strange to me. I hope they worked this out as I would love to purchase this product in the future and have it arrive a few days later (like usually delivers).

First of all, everything Rifle Paper Company makes is beautiful and of top quality. This book of labels and stickers is no exception! There are several different pages of labels/stickers and there are 3-4 duplicates of each page. So... have one particular sticker you LOVE? Don't worry about using it because there are few more on subsequent pages! Again, beautiful product and great for anyone who enjoys paper crafts or dressing up letters and packages!

Nice collection of labels. Not quite as cheerful as most of Anna Rifle Bonds' current work - more subdued autumnal tones. The assortment includes quite a few book labels, gift tags, simple round stickers and correspondence labels. They stick well and the paper is fairly thin (read flexible but not too durable) matte stock. I think I will find uses for them often! I also purchase two other collections of labels by Chronicle books and the quality was similar, the preference came in the designs. My favorite was Joie Du Jour box of labels and this was my second favorite.

Confession: I love Rifle Paper Co. products in general, so I might be a bit biased. I also have a thing for labels! But these are really just beautiful, and I love that they're not shiny/glossy like so many others, which makes them feel a bit more grown-up and elegant. My only qualm is that they require a little more persistence to peel off, but I'm going to assume this also means they'll stay put once you decide where to use them. At a hair under $10, I think these are well worth the price for any number of projects ranging from junk journals to gift giving occasions.

https://smile..com/dp/1452107505/ref=cm_cr_ryp_prd_ttl_sol_55 I saw these at a high line paper store and wanted to gift them...came home, and looked on and low and behold here they are for cheaper! I love them and they were a perfect little addition for my gift basket~

I had the other book of sticker labels from Rifle before and it was mostly birthday themed and labels for envelopes and packages. I was hoping for something similar. This pack has book plate stickers and much less just open space labels.

Rifle Paper Co. makes high quality products and the botanicals labels and stickers booklet is no exception! These stickers/labels do not tear as compared to similar/cheaper products. In terms of variety, this booklet includes to/from gift labels, recipe card headers, this book belongs to's, florals, banners and more. This makes a great gift or treat for yourself!
