Customer Reviews

More than 100 notable contemporary architectural projects are featured, each with photographs and a few descriptive paragraphs. A Guidebook to Contemporary Architecture in Montreal is also highly recommended to armchair travelers, as the next best thing to seeing Montreal's architectural wonders in-person! (Midwest Book Review)

Nancy Dunton is a Consultant at the Centre for Contemporary Architecture (CCA) in Montreal. Formerly Head of University and Professional Programs at the center, she has worked on architectural projects and management of organizations such as Heritage Montreal. Helen Malkin has worked on exhibition and publications for the CCA for more than twenty years and is currently Special Consultant to the Director. She worked with Douglas & McIntyre on The 60s: Montreal Thinks Big and more recently with Lars Muller on Sense of the City.

Really appreciated this book for the metro directions and maps within the book it helped me orient myself and understand the city. The only complain is the size being so small, I wish it was double in size so I can have higher quality photographs to analyze. Plus it would be helpful to have more than one photo per building.
