Founded in 1915 as the Cartographic Group, the first division of National Geographic, National Geographic Maps has been responsible for illustrating the world around us through the art and science of mapmaking. Today, National Geographic Maps continues this mission by creating the world's best wall maps, recreation maps, atlases, and globes which inspire people to care about and explore their world.

This is more than a map. In addition to good detail of roads there is a lot of information on many archaeology sites and towns. The reason for only 3 stars is the very flimsy paper it is printed on makes it easy to tear and crinkle up. If the map is going to be spread out on a table or tacked on a wall it large and easily readable.

National Geographic rarely missed the ball on their adventure maps. I purchased a Grand Canyon adventure map while hiking in the national park and that thing withstood some real beatings. This map is no different - it has a great waterproof outer layer and the paper used feels strong and thick (for a map). As for mapping, the details are great and locations are spot on!

A very handy map to have with you as you tour Belize. I really like that it is waterproof.

Not very detailed--this is great for seeing a picture of Belize, but pretty useless for getting anywhere.

Good map but covers mostly national parks whereas I am interested in traveling to communities, cities and seeing local sights. Really not what I was looking for.

We initially thought that this map was pretty good but then when we need to find a shorter way to go between Sarteneja and Corozal, we discovered that the roads to the ferries were not on it. Did a lot of navigation via the locals.

Great map made of durable, lightweight plastic. Landmarks are clearly indicated, making for wonderful impromptu adventuring in Belize.

Nice map.
